

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

And O, the Wind,
 'Twas such a saucy little brook
 And had so beckoning a look
 And had so winking a gleam
 That off I followed where it led,
 Caught by its roiling eye,
 Caught by the dimpling laugh that sped
 Ever ahead, ever ahead,
 Amid the grasses growing—
 And O, the wind was blowing,
 And O, the wind was high!

It seemed to me I must chase
 Forever at a charmed pace
 Among the parting grasses;
 Forever taunted by a sound
 Of laughing-voiced leaves
 Whom never any mortal found
 While all around and all around
 Green grasses should be growing
 And dreams be misty blowing
 As a peril when it passes.

Fled is the wind I know not where;
 There is a deadness in the air
 And rain along the sky.
 Where am I going that I run
 Upon the muddy flats that lie
 In squalor toward a setting sun?
 Can this same pathway have begun
 Where there were grasses growing?
 And O, the wind was blowing,
 And O, the wind was high!

Palmer—Ross.

The wedding of Miss Fanny Ross to Mr. William H. Palmer, Jr., was celebrated Thursday afternoon, June first, at half-past five o'clock, in the home of the bride, No. 101 East Franklin Street, the Rev. Dr. W. E. Evans, of Monumental Episcopal Church, being the celebrant.

The spacious drawing rooms in the Ross residence were grouped with palms, the stately green fronds making the background of the altar, where the marriage service was read. Professor Jacob Reichardt directed the music, which was lovely in selection and rendition.

The bride came in with her father, Dr. George Ross. She was exquisitely gowned in white lace, above accordion-plaited chiffon and liberty satin. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, a spray of these flowers holding the folds of her veil in place.

Awaiting her coming at the altar was the groom with his best man, Mr. Edwin A. Palmer. Miss Hattie Ross, her sister, maid of honor, wore pale blue chiffon cloth, trimmed in lace and hand embroidery. Her costume was finished with a lace straw hat, garnished in blue feathers and white roses. Her flowers were a great cluster of white gardenias.

A lovely quartette of ribbon holders, dressed in pure white, were little Misses Belle Mayo Cameron, of Raleigh, N. C.; Elsie Atkinson, Elizabeth Palmer and Master Horace Munson, of Richmond.

A reception, at six o'clock followed the ceremony. Mrs. George Ross, the bride's mother, who stood with Mr. and Mrs. Palmer, was very handsome in black panne crepe de chine and point lace.

The dining-room decorations were in white, green and white. Suspended from the chandelier above the table by green ribbons were three white doves carrying wedding bells in their beaks. A beautiful plaque of white sweet peas, lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern rested in handsome lace over green. Candelabra, holding white wax tapers, were shaded in green and tied with soft loops of green ribbon, the whole effect being lovely in the extreme.

Reception guests included the representative society, people in Richmond, most of whom were in the family connections and intimate friends of the bride and groom.

Never perhaps could a young couple be more affectionately remembered in the way of wedding gifts than Mr. and Mrs. Palmer. Nothing that is beautiful and elegant in the way of cut glass, silver and other articles of equal value has been omitted in the list of presents. Among all these highly valued evidences of esteem is a punch ladle, bearing the name of Mrs. Jefferson Davis, the venerable widow of the President of the Confederacy, and the warm personal friend of Dr. and Mrs. Ross.

The bride and groom left last evening for a Northern tour, that will be extended to Canada. They will have their home in Richmond when they return.

Fauntleroy—Watkins.

Grace Street Presbyterian Church was the scene last evening at 8 o'clock of the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Watkins, daughter of Mr. A. Judson Watkins, to Mr. George Latane Fauntleroy, son of the late John Fauntleroy, of "The Mount," King and Queen county. The Rev. Jers Witherspoon, pastor of the church, was the officiating clergyman.

Church decorations were in white and green, carried out in white roses and palms. Mr. Wetzel was at the organ, and the bridal procession was led by two little flower girls, cousins of the bride, Virginia and Elizabeth Watkins, dressed in white, with white ribbons and sashes. The bridesmaid, the bride's sister, was her maid of honor, and wore a charming toilet of pink crepe de chine, with incrustations of lace. Her bouquet was of pink sweet peas. Mr. J. Dey Conover was best man.

The list of groomsmen included Dr. T. D. Merrick, Mr. W. F. Harris, Mr. James Watkins, Mr. Powhatan Bredon,

EVENING SONG.

By SIDNEY LANIER.

Other selections from this same author, his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch have already been printed in this series.

At a banquet given in honor of Mark Anthony, the Roman general, Cleopatra dissolved pearls in the wine she drank.

LOOK off, dear love, across the sallow sands,
 And mark you meeting of the sun and sea,
 How long they kiss in sight of all the lands.
 Ah! longer, longer, we.

Now in the sea's red vintage melts the sun,
 As Egypt's pearl dissolved in rosy wine,
 And Cleopatra night drinks all. 'Tis done,
 Love, lay thine hand in mine.

Come forth, sweet stars, and comfort heaven's heart;
 Glimmer, ye waves, round else unlighted sands.
 O, night! divorce our sun and sky apart,
 Never our lips, our hands.

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, October 11, 1904. One is published each day.

Mr. Otway Chalkley, Jr., and Mr. Alexander Sands.

The bride, who walked to the altar with her brother, Mr. W. B. Watkins, was gowned in white messaline, draped with an exquisite point lace shawl, worn at her wedding by the bride's mother. The berthe on the corsage and the lace finishing the neck and sleeves was of the same lovely pattern.

The bride party was handsomely entertained Wednesday evening by Mrs. C. S. Winn at her home, No. 400 East Grace Street. A reception after the ceremony last evening was held in the home of the bride's mother, No. 401 East Grace Street, and the bride stood, in receiving congratulations from her friends, just where her mother had stood years before. Mrs. Watkins was elegantly attired in a black, jet robe, with duchesse lace and diamonds.

The house decorations throughout were in white and green. In the dining room a plaque of white sweet peas and maiden hair ferns made the center ornament, the table being set with romantic lace, and illuminated with silver and crystal candelabra holding white candles.

Out-of-town guests included, among others, Mr. and Mrs. John Dey Conover, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fauntleroy, of Tunstall; Misses Myers, of Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. McKenzie, of Marietta, Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Fauntleroy, who were the fortunate recipients of a profusion of lovely wedding gifts in silver cut glass, bronzes and furniture, from relatives and friends, left last evening for a Northern wedding trip. They will make their future home at No. 401 East Grace Street.

The bride is a young girl of the most attractive personality, one who possesses, outside of her large family circle, many devoted friends. Mr. Fauntleroy, who formerly did business in New York, has been for several years located in Richmond, where he is a commission broker for a large New York firm.

Dodson—Crouch.

One of the prettiest of June home weddings was that of Miss Frances Lelper Crouch, daughter of Mrs. Jean F. Crouch, to Mr. Charles Russell Dodson, taking place at 6:30 P. M. in the home of the bride, No. 206 East Main Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. W. J. Young, of Centenary Methodist Church.

The house was charmingly decorated in sweet peas and maiden hair ferns. Mrs. J. Luther Brown, of Danville, Va., the cousin of the bride, was her dame of honor. Miss Brownie Pettit was maid of honor, and Mr. Morris Moore, the best man.

Little Miss Virginia Brown and Master S. Armistead Venable formed the ribbon aisle through which the bridal party approached the altar.

The bride came in with her dame of honor and was given away by her uncle, Dr. Richard G. Crouch. She wore an imported white lace robe and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The dame of honor wore a white mousseline de soie. Her flowers were American Beauty roses.

The maid of honor was gowned in white chiffon over white silk, worn with a green girdle, and had an arm bouquet of maiden hair ferns.

The bride party having been entertained Wednesday evening by Mrs. Crouch, there was no reception after the ceremony, the bride and groom, after receiving the congratulations of their friends, leaving for New York, whence they will sail by the White Star liner Celtic for a three months' trip abroad.

The fact that Mrs. Dodson will be at home when she returns in Kingston, N. C., where Mr. Dodson is engaged in the tobacco business, is a matter of sincere regret to her numerous Richmond friends.

home of the bride's mother, Mrs. C. E. Straus, of No. 409 West Grace Street.

Owing to recent bereavement in the bride's family, the ceremony was a quiet one, no cards having been issued.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Stern.

Daniel—Allen.

The Rev. H. Pearce Atkins officiated at the wedding yesterday morning of Miss Maria B. Allen to Mr. Travers Daniel, Jr., taking place in the home of the bride, No. 22 North Lombardy Street.

Engagement Announced.

The many friends and relatives in Virginia of the Rev. Winifred Newman Claybrook, lady of Huntsville, Ala., will be interested to hear of her engagement to Miss Beale Burritt Fariss, which has just been announced.

The bride-to-be is the only daughter of Mr. William H. Fariss, of Huntsville. She is a beautiful woman, of brunette type, and is a great favorite in Huntsville society.

The wedding will take place in the Church of the Nativity, Huntsville, Ala., sometime in September.

Fisher—Richmond.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Annie Hinton Richmond, of Milton, N. C., to Mr. Edward C. Fisher, of this city. The wedding will take place on the evening of Wednesday, June 14th, at nine o'clock, in the Presbyterian Church, Milton, N. C.

SALE OF STAMPS.

Postoffice Business Increases Ten Per Cent. in One Month.

Receipts for the sale of stamps and stamped matter for the Richmond postoffice for the month of May, 1905, exceeded those of May, 1904, by $1,300. The increase over the month last year of more than ten per cent. The total receipts for the month were $3,635.83, compared with $2,335.83 for May, 1904. The substantial increase is partly accounted for by the heavy sales of stamps to candidates for office on Wednesday, June 7th, and by the normal increase in the business of the city. Every month shows a steady increase over the corresponding month of the preceding year, and indicates the steady and substantial growth of Richmond as a business and commercial center.

The monthly pay roll for carriers engaged in the rural free mail delivery service in this State for the month of May aggregated $11,187.10, compared with $21,628.78 for May, 1904, or nearly 100 per cent. increase in one month. The number of rural carriers in this State is now 714. All of these reports to the Richmond office and are paid through it. The work of auditing these reports and making out checks therefor being done by Cashier Marriott and the checks in the Richmond office. The growth of the rural free delivery service in Virginia during the last three years has been phenomenal, the congressmen showing great activity in securing such service in their districts. Congressman Claude A. Swinson, of the Fifth District, leads all the other representatives in the number of rural routes in his district, and Representative Flood, of the Tenth District, is a close second.

JUSTICE JOHN LONGING.

Wants to See the Green Fields of Hanover—Police Court.

There is a spirit of unrest in the bosom of Justice John. He is longing for the corn fields and asparagus beds of the overcast, upland, Mechanicville. He longs for the Hanover moorland and he wants to see the lightning bug hover over Galena's Mill.

Therefore when the docket was called out by Sergeant Thomas he went off into a reminiscent mood, and let the sinners go with him.

Andrew Roberts, colored, was dismissed of the charge of hitting James Crichton with a knife. It is noted that the latter was after him good and hard. The Wise Guy saw it was a case of self-defense. Cleveland Childers was sent on to the grand jury for hitting a man on the head with a brick.

It cost Richard Randolph $10 for hitting a white boy named Peter Morton was charged the sum of $5 for being rude to another boy.

TO MEET IN LYNCHBURG TO ELECT A COADJUTOR

The Episcopal Council Selects Portsmouth As Next Place of Assembly.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WYTHEVILLE, VA., June 1.—The proceedings of the third days' session of the Council for the Southern Diocese of Virginia was taken up in the main by routine business.

A resolution was passed calling the council to meet in Lynchburg in October, subject to the approval of Bishop Randolph, for the purpose of electing a bishop coadjutor, provided a favorable response is obtained from the bishops and standing committees of the other dioceses to the requests for permission to elect one.

The council adjourned at 8 o'clock this afternoon. After the adjournment of the council there was a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, which was addressed by Rev. W. A. R. Goodwin, of Williamsburg.

The next annual meeting of the council will be held in Trinity Church, Portsmouth.

EDUCATORS MEET.

Judge Mann the Principal Speaker at Abingdon.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ABINGDON, VA., June 1.—The first session of the Ninth Congressional District educational meeting was held in the chapel of Martha Washington College last night in the presence of a large and cultured audience.

Rev. M. D. Mitchell, of Abingdon, delivered the address of welcome, and Rev. Frank Delaney, of Bristol, the response. The principal speaker of the evening was Judge William H. Mann, who received a hearty ovation when he arose. He made a splendid address, and one that was heartily enjoyed and listened to with the keenest interest.

To-day a number of prominent teachers made addresses and the meeting is very enthusiastic. The hospitable homes of Abingdon have been thrown open, and the large numbers of visitors are enjoying themselves immensely.

Postmans' New Tiles.

The carriers of Richmond or many of them will appear to-day in their new tiles. They're very light in weight and are altogether a most appropriate head piece. The hats were furnished by O. H. Berry & Co. of this city.
